those who will need*

The issues of care giving and care for those who are giving care are so interrelated that it seems you can't talk about one without delving into the other. People in churches and religious communities deal with these issues continuously. The issue of care giving and caring for caregivers is always a part of life, whether it involves young families, mid-life or empty nesters.

As an ongoing ministry of Grace Presbyterian Church we offer this event to reach out to those who need support and resources as they care for people with life-altering and chronic long-term conditions. We believe the church is a place of support and resource for both our spiritual and physical needs. Please consider joining us for this day as we offer support, encouragement, and valuable information.

Six different presentations will be offered twice during the day. Choose one presentation at each Session.
